Course Overview and Intended Audience

This meeting will provide a broad experience in state-of-the-art emergency imaging, including both educational sessions covering the latest advances and trends in emergency radiologic diagnosis and sessions presenting new original scientific work. The meeting provides opportunity to meet with international colleagues and discuss new and challenging aspects of emergency imaging.

This meeting will be of particular interest to community radiologists who deliver emergency care as part of their clinical duties. This meeting is also valuable for academic radiologists specializing in emergency radiology, neuroradiology, musculoskeletal radiology, urology, and gastrointestinal radiology. Residents and fellows at various levels of training will find the scientific and educational material presented at ASER to be a vital component of their core fund-of-knowledge.

2007 Meeting Goals and Learning Objectives

1. Review the optimized, minimum dose MDCT techniques in the evaluation of trauma.
2. Illustrate important CT findings in central nervous system, musculoskeletal, thoracic, and abdominal trauma.
3. Identify important findings in the evaluation of non-traumatic, inflammatory emergencies.
4. Describe CT angiography techniques and discuss their application for evaluation of both traumatic and non-traumatic emergencies.

International Session

THE GOLDEN HOUR FROM THE EUROPEAN PERSPECTIVE

The aim of the International Session is to broaden the educational perspective to a more global viewpoint. This year, the session covers the Golden Hour from the European perspective.

Although some of the material covered will be familiar to American radiologists, there are also several less familiar areas. This session should allow our European colleagues the opportunity to showcase their expertise and to enter into discussion where there are intercontinental differences.

Teleradiology Session

HOT TOPIC: TELERADIOLOGY AND OUTSOURCING

The Teleradiology and Outsourcing Session will examine several facets of this rapidly growing segment of radiology practice. Speakers will address various practice models and clinical implications of teleradiology, explore analogies with global trade and market forces, and summarize the current landscape of regulatory and legal factors relevant to providers and subscribers of teleradiology services. The session will include a panel discussion to allow further exploration of topics guided by audience interest.
